

“I wouldn't hesitate to go out of my way to catch Louis Ledford live. His guitar work is understated, but his proficiency makes itself apparent early in his set. The music has a decidedly Southern vibe; soulful, bluesy and completely timeless. His delivery has a feel of familiarity from the first notes. Even on his most melancholic songs, there is a peaceful, comfortable quality to his world-weary voice. The key to it all, though, is the songwriting. Ledford is one of the most literate songwriters working today.”

*William Beneke, Director
Princeton Coffeehouse Series*

Louis Ledford evokes the spirit of the 60s, when folk music spoke truth to power. - Mary Gauthier

Louis Ledford achieves what Woody Guthrie was so good at—making an instant connection with the listener. - Americana U.K.

A fine painter of words, Ledford brushes each story from a rich lyrical palette allowing the listener to visualize each song. Outstanding!

*Cheryl Sundberg, Director
Porcupine Mountains Music Festival*